New LAC partner in Darwin

Jason Diederich is the General Manager, Communities and Assessment Services at APM, the organisation chosen as the community partner for the NDIS in Darwin.

Alongside extensive experience in the disability and human services sector, Jason has been an amputee since the age of 10 and is also a former Paralympian. Jason is hoping his personal experience with disability will have a positive impact on the local community. "As a fiercely independent person with disability myself, it means so much to create opportunities for other people in similar circumstances to achieve that independence too," Jason said.

"The NDIS is going to give many people with a disability in Darwin the opportunity to do that, to choose the supports that will help them work towards their goals, whatever they may be."
