On this page:

ECEI reset consultation papers

We released two papers that set out 23 recommendations to reset the implementation of our early childhood approach.

The first paper was developed for families and carers and is a summary of the full consultation report.

The second paper is the full project consultation report on the ECEI Implementation Reset that outlined the research, recommendations and background.

This paper was published for sector stakeholders, governments and mainstream supports like education and health, as well as families and carers that want more detail.

The consultation period was open for three months. Submissions closed in late February 2021. You can read the submissions here.

Read the consultation papers

The first paper, which is a summary of the full consultation report, can be found via the following links:

- Consultation Paper - Supporting young children and their families early to reach their full potential (DOCX 2.2MB)
- Consultation Paper - Supporting young children and their families early to reach their full potential (PDF 305KB)
- Easy Read - Supporting young children early (PDF 7MB)
- Easy Read (text only) - Supporting young children early (DOCX 55KB)

The second paper, which is the full consultation report, can be found via the following links:

- ECEI Implementation Reset - Project Consultation Report (DOCX 3.4MB)
- ECEI Implementation Reset - Project Consultation Report (PDF 3.2MB)

See the latest update on the ECEI reset

Read the latest update on how we're progressing with the ECEI reset.

This page current as of 10 August 2022