Vendors can now send eInvoices to the National Disability Insurance Agency (NDIA).

The new eInvoices option streamlines how we receive and process invoices.

eInvoicing is only available for invoices from NDIA vendors.

It is not yet available for NDIS invoices from service providers.

There are more than 120 Government agencies and departments who use eInvoicing.

How do NDIA vendors submit eInvoices?

NDIA Vendors can now send eInvoices to the NDIA through their accounting software.

If you are unsure if your software can send eInvoices, you should reach out to your software provider.

If you are not able to send eInvoices, you can still send PDF, Word or printed invoices.

You can find more information about eInvoicing by visiting eInvoicing at business.gov.au .

eInvoicing does not change payment or processing terms and timeframes.
