The NDIA is releasing a range of specialist data in addition to the comprehensive quarterly and other reports regularly released to better assist stakeholders to understand the experience of Australians with disability and emerging market trends.

This data gives a picture of the needs, successes and challenges for Australians who live with a disability, those who support them, and those who work within the sector.

The NDIA is sharing this data in a range of formats including downloadable reports and spreadsheets, analysis and presentations. Explore the data.

As new information becomes available it will be added, see the release schedule.

We invite you to explore this data to further your own knowledge of the disability sector, its challenges and the way the NDIS is working to create a more accessible and inclusive society.
