30 April 2018

Australians with disability will be empowered to exercise more choice and control in their lives.

The Federal Government will provide $56 million in grant funding to projects that help make Australia more inclusive for people with disability.

Many of the projects will specifically target hard-to-reach communities, such as Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people, remote regions, and culturally and linguistically diverse populations.

The projects have been funded through the National Disability Insurance Agency's Information, Linkages and Capacity Building (ILC) Program.

Related articles

Organisations receive funding to make ACT more inclusive

Date
21 April 2017

More inclusive remote communities

Date
15 August 2018

$7m for WA for NDIS Information, Linkages and Capacity Building grants

Date
5 November 2018
Read more news